

WEEK ONE

JOHN 1:1-2; JOHN 3:16

God sending Jesus is the ultimate example of generosity.

.....

WEEK TWO

JOHN 1:4-5; MATTHEW 5:14-16

If you want to light the way for others, love them like Jesus.

.....

WEEK THREE

LUKE 1:26-32; MATTHEW 1:18-23

Show you care by showing up.

THINK ABOUT THIS:

During the busy Christmas season, it's easy for us all—teenagers included—to lose sight of what's most important about this holiday. That's why in this series we're talking about God's generosity toward us—that God gave us Jesus before we ever did one good thing. Before we ever prayed a prayer, sang a song, or did anything else, God, through Jesus, generously came to Earth to live among us and now we can generously give to others.

WEEK ONE

JOHN 1:1-2; JOHN 3:16

God sending Jesus is the ultimate example of generosity.

.....

WEEK TWO

JOHN 1:4-5; MATTHEW 5:14-16

If you want to light the way for others, love them like Jesus.

.....

WEEK THREE

LUKE 1:26-32; MATTHEW 1:18-23

Show you care by showing up.

REMEMBER THIS:

Thanks be to God for his indescribable gift!
2 CORINTHIANS 9:15 NIV

THINK ABOUT THIS:

During the busy Christmas season, it's easy for us all—teenagers included—to lose sight of what's most important about this holiday. That's why in this series we're talking about God's generosity toward us—that God gave us Jesus before we ever did one good thing. Before we ever prayed a prayer, sang a song, or did anything else, God, through Jesus, generously came to Earth to live among us and now we can generously give to others.

 DO THIS:

MORNING TIME

Often our mornings feel rushed as everyone tries to avoid missed busses and forgotten homework. After your teen heads to school, text them three specific reasons you are thankful for them. Encouragement in the morning can start their day on the right foot.

MEAL TIME

As a family, think of a neighbor, friend from school, or a family from church who would appreciate a meal this week. Prepare or purchase a meal for another family and deliver it together this Christmas season.

THEIR TIME

Sometimes small acts of kindness show others in big ways that they matter. This season, if your teen mentions a friend who is going through a tough time right now, ask how you can encourage them together. Together, come up with a way to support them by praying for them, sending them a card, giving them a small gift, or inviting them over for dinner.

BED TIME

The Christmas season sometimes means full calendars filled with holiday parties and events—for you and your teen. One night this week as you or your teen is winding down for the night, ask your teen if there's a night this week they'd be up for staying in and watching a Christmas movie. Whether it's a family favorite or a never before seen Christmas movie, enjoy a night at home together.

 DO THIS:

MORNING TIME

Often our mornings feel rushed as everyone tries to avoid missed busses and forgotten homework. After your teen heads to school, text them three specific reasons you are thankful for them. Encouragement in the morning can start their day on the right foot.

MEAL TIME

As a family, think of a neighbor, friend from school, or a family from church who would appreciate a meal this week. Prepare or purchase a meal for another family and deliver it together this Christmas season.

THEIR TIME

Sometimes small acts of kindness show others in big ways that they matter. This season, if your teen mentions a friend who is going through a tough time right now, ask how you can encourage them together. Together, come up with a way to support them by praying for them, sending them a card, giving them a small gift, or inviting them over for dinner.

BED TIME

The Christmas season sometimes means full calendars filled with holiday parties and events—for you and your teen. One night this week as you or your teen is winding down for the night, ask your teen if there's a night this week they'd be up for staying in and watching a Christmas movie. Whether it's a family favorite or a never before seen Christmas movie, enjoy a night at home together.